Expanding the therapeutic conversation~ Reflecting teams in Action

Presented by Brier Miller, LMFT and Julie Tilsen, MA, LP, PhD

From the trailblazing work of the Milan team, to the use of the “Greek Chorus” in strategic therapy, from the teamwork of Karl Tomm to the postmodern turn toward outsider witnessing and definitional ceremonies, the use of therapeutic teams has expanded relational possibilities and generated provocative, novel, and rich conversations. These conversations have stretched family therapists and clients alike, inviting fresh imaginings and opening space for many voices. Let’s get creative as we reclaim core MFT techniques.

In this interactive and practice-based workshop, Brier and Julie will overview the various iterations of therapeutic teamwork, highlighting theoretical, ethical and practical considerations. Special attention will be paid to the power of relationship, positioning, and the notion of therapy as social construction while attendees participate in practice activities.
